

Fig Class News

October 17th – 21st, 2011

Greetings Fig Families!

World Fair: We're looking forward to hosting world travelers tonight! Fig class will become North America and house Native American displays from all the CMP Shingle Springs fourth-grade students. Our fifth graders will have their Explorers work displayed in the Eucalyptus class. Grab your passport and admire our research-based projects!

Conferences: We had a great turn out for conferences! Thank you for your questions, comments and support! Your participation is critical to your child's success!

This Week in Fig: We'll be working on Test Tube Division in math this week, and contractions in language. Students continue to work through the math and language curriculum at their individual level. They've also been making progress on our geometry curriculum. New this week, we're going to make our classroom computers available during afternoon work time for those students who have completed their planner work for the day.

Chaperone Lottery: The lottery notification results went home last week in Wednesday folders.

Photo Parent: We still need a volunteer to snap shots of our students working in class. Let us know!
